UNMETHODICAL CHAOS

The hardest part for me is deciding the title of my exhibition and writing an artist's statement. I personally believe that a painter does not need to explain his/her work; a painter communicates through their painting. Paintings exist to look at and to evoke feelings, and if the viewer cannot feel anything, then the painter has failed to communicate to that viewer. Unmethodical Chaos is a painting series of random subjects and styles. These paintings have no philosophy or message. I simply tried to combine my inner chaos to the outside chaos. Let's see how successful I am in making you feel the way I feel.

Khalid khan -KAAY

Khalid Khan, also known as Kaay, is an acclaimed artist who has to his credit solo painting exhibitions in the Germany, and Pakistan. His work has been been displayed in many European countries including France, Germany, Spain, and the UK. His work also regularly featured by Rebecca Wilson, a Chief Curator and a VP at Saatchi Art and former Director at Saatchi Gallery, London.

In 1988 Kaay graduated in fine arts from a renowned Arts college in Karachi and soon began his career as a graphic designer. After his second solo painting exhibition in 1993 he got an opportunity to visit London. Having fallen in love with the city, he decided to make London his home and returned in 1995 to realize this dream. Here he studied media production and computer graphics.

His career took him to Germany next where he spent 7 years working as a creative director in an advertising agency. However, his love for the city of London did not diminish. He followed his heart and returned to London and that is where he resides now. Kaay's passion for art never faded and for the last ten years his main focus has been painting.
