Working Class Hero

A solo show by Casim Mahmood

We are delighted to end the year with a solo exhibition of sculptures by Casim Mahmood titled 'Working Class Hero' at Ejaz Art Gallery. It is the first comprehensive exhibition of Mahmood's practice that spans over two decades.

By developing a unique style of transforming metal scrape into human figures, Casim depicts the everyday struggles of the working class. Through this show, we commend the struggles of our heroes who work tirelessly, often sacrificing their mental and physical health to provide for their family and livelihoods.

Casim Mahmood

Casim Mahmood (b. 1978) is a Lahore based self-taught sculptor, known for using a unique process of transforming metal scrap into human figures, depicting the everyday struggles of the working class in Pakistan. Mahmood observes the bodies of his subjects conditioned through the adversities of time. On the one hand his sculptures delineate their pain and suffering, and on the other the inherent quality of metal manifests resilience and courage to never surrender.

Casim also is a self taught blues guitarist and has a Punjabi blues band. He is a prolific film producer as well with various high profile projects in the works.

His solo exhibition titled "Working Class Hero" at Ejaz Art Gallery is the first comprehensive exhibition of Mahmood's practice that spans over two decades. Mahmood's work is part of various private collections in Pakistan.
